V · Admission regulations

1. The admission selection process is based on a written review. Applicants may be notified to receive phone calls, video calls, or other interview methods if necessary.
2. Each department will review the applicants' written materials, comprehensively evaluate and rank the qualified list, and submit the admission list to the admissions committee for approval. If the selection results do not meet the minimum standard set by the admissions committee, even if there are vacancies, they will not be admitted. The number of admitted students is limited to the quota specified in this brochure, and the number of waitlisted students will be determined based on the selection results.
3. For departments that admit waitlisted students, if there are vacancies among the admitted students, waitlisted students who meet the minimum admission standards may be admitted to the original quota within the period specified in these admission guidelines.
4. After the registration and waitlist process for "school recommendation" channel ends, if there are still vacancies, they will be transferred to the "individual application" channel for supplementation. If the recommended students from the "school recommendation" channel fail to pass the review or do not provide a school recommendation letter, they will be included in the "individual application" channel for another review.
